

Easy-to-use mobile messaging for the classroom

Over 5,000 schools are using Celly today to easily connect and communicate inside and outside the classroom.

Teachers are holding class discussions, sending quizzes and homework reminders

Coaches are sending schedules and updates

Administrators are using it for district-wide notifications and staff coordination

Students are working together in teams and study groups

Mobile collaboration for teachers, coaches and administrators

How Celly Works

Celly is a new, simple platform for communication between educators, students and parents. It's easy:

Set up a group for your class or team (in just 2 minutes!). Students and parents join for private, instant messaging.

Send messages, reminders and alerts instantly. Use polls to gather information and real-time responses.

Connect related groups and topics (e.g. by grade, subject) for easy collaboration across teams and campuses.

You'll have instant, private, secure classroom communication without the "over-sharing" concerns of social networks.
